Mr. White is a noted worker in the Baptist Young People's Union and his address will be of great interest. The different unions of the valley have been invited to be present tonight. George H. J. White, who recently arrived to take up his duties as state Sunday school missionary, will be present this evening.

HERE FROM CHICAGO—Mrs. Hal Compton Bangs and little son of 14, who arrived Monday to spend the remainder of the winter with Miss Anderson.

UNDELIVERED TELEGRAMS—The following undelivered telegrams are at the local Western Union office: Mr. W. H. Birmingham, William H. Burke, P. M. Jackson, G. P. Meadows, Rev. A. W. Adkinson, M. E. Van Loan, Bert Chandler, Mrs. B. W. Trent, Ray Perkins.

COMES TO URGE HIGHWAY—R. J. Pritchard, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Gallup, N. M., is in town working for the passage of the bill which will enable Arizona to complete the highway from Havasupai to the state line. Pritchard believes that this road will mean much to both states, for New Mexico has but 15 miles of roadway to complete on her side of the border, and then there will be a paved highway straight from Gallup to Phoenix. Mr. Pritchard is well-known here in Phoenix, where he was once a newspaper man, and has been going around renewing old acquaintances, and telling everyone how much he thinks of the capital city.

ASKS FOR DIVORCE—While he lay sick in bed, Robert E. Johnson declares in a suit filed Monday for a decree of divorce from Polly A. Johnson, who came to him on September 20, 1920, and threatened to cut his throat, he says, unless he gave her a large sum of money. They were married on August 29, 1920, and separated September 20.

ALLEGED HORSE THIEF—J. Ortega, wanted in Phoenix on a charge of grand larceny, has been arrested in Yuma and is being held for the local authorities. Deputy Sheriff Ernest Smith left last night to bring Ortega back to Phoenix. Ortega is alleged to have stolen several horses from a Mexican rancher in the valley about a year ago.

ARRESTED IN DOUGLAS—Deputy Sheriff R. M. Price left for Douglas last night to bring E. E. Lowell back to Phoenix. Lowell is wanted in Phoenix on a charge of passing a bogus check. He was arrested in Douglas yesterday and is being held for the local authorities.

JURY DISAGREES—When a jury in the superior court Monday could not reach a verdict in the case of Fred Argall, tried on a charge of attempting to pass a bogus check, Judge Stanton dismissed them. Argall was alleged to have attempted to pass a worthless check for $50 to Sam Ballou.

PAN-HELLENIC LUNCHEON—Reservations for the Pan-Hellenic luncheon should be made to Mrs. Fred J. Elliott, telephone 1090, on Thursday. All girls who are members of national Greek letter sororities are asked to be present.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S LUNCHEON—On account of a conflict of dates, the Business and Professional Women's club will meet in luncheon Thursday noon at the M. F. A. jointly with the chamber of commerce teams. The club committee for the day will postpone its arrangements and hopes for a large attendance of Phoenix club members on this occasion to show that the business and professional women of Phoenix are glad to join in the spirit of the movement for a "Bigger and Better Phoenix."

MAY BE SUPERVISOR—Robert Denton, an attorney of Casa Grande, who is thought to be appointed supervisor of Pinal county to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. C. Howard Davis, has been a resident of Casa Grande for the last four years and he has had an active part in the development of that country and feels a deep interest in the growth and prosperity of Pinal county. He was, moreover, an intimate friend of Dr. Davis, as he was of Frank Schilling, another member of the board who died recently.

OPEN HOUSE FRIDAY—The Women's club will follow its usual custom of holding open house Friday afternoon to the strangers in the city. The hostesses will be Mrs. George Brockway, Mrs. John Henry Coles, Mrs. Ben Cross, Mrs. A. L. Moore and Mrs. Nat McKee.

SHRINERS FOREGATHER IN PHOENIX TO DEDICATE THE NEW TEMPLE OF EL ZARIBAH

More Than Three Hundred Are Present at Ceremonial On Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Local Temple—Fez Dominates Capital City—Visiting Ladies Are Handsomely Entertained—Parade in Evening Is Big Feature And Brings Out Many Thousands to Witness Event—Grand Ball This Evening To Be Closing Event of Ceremonial

It was a hard day for the Novices. The forenoon exercises began in the new temple at 10 o'clock, and at 11 o'clock the first feature being the Novices' parade. The parade was taken care of with respect to rooms. As soon as the divan had arrived at the hotel the festivities of the day began, the first feature being the Novices' parade in which the novices were led through the business streets under circumstances that saved them a definite knowledge of the opprobrium that should rightfully attach to those bearing the name.

At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the initiatory exercises began in the new temple, and at 3:30 o'clock the traditional banquet of the Shriner was held. Then, in the evening, the Shriner staged a parade that was a continual joy for the spectators and for those Novices who were not too tired to laugh at themselves. With red fire to light the way and three bands to announce the coming of the Novices, the Shriner and their army marched through the downtown streets, that were crowded with spectators. The Shriner drum and bugle corps and the Shriner patrol in gorgeous uniforms were features of the parade, with a wire cage full of Novices singing "How Dry I Am" as not the least interesting diversion.

At the same time that the parade was in progress the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of the Shriner were carrying out their own parade as a part of the "entertainment de luxe" which had been provided for the ladies of visiting Shriner. And when the Novices met the ladies who also were being initiated at Adams street and Central avenue the ensuing scenes and the comeliness back and forth were better than a circus for the hundreds who had crowded around them. When the parade reached the auditorium the second section of the entertainment was taken up, while the entertainment of the ladies of the Shrine continued.

Ladies at Country Club
 A feature of the celebration was the plans which had been prepared for the entertainment of the ladies, and which began yesterday afternoon with a luncheon for them at the Country club, followed by cards in the evening the "entertainment de luxe" for the ladies started and this will be continued today. The grand ball will take place tonight, and preparations have been made to insure its being the most elaborate affair of its kind to be held in Phoenix during the season.

Beginning at 6 o'clock this morning the entertainment of the ladies will be resumed at the auditorium. Those who are eligible to take part in the entertainment are the wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of Shriner who are more than 18 years of age. Those desiring to take part in the entertainment are requested to report to Mrs. Joseph Stark at the auditorium, and all the novices who took the Shrine degrees yesterday and last night will be permitted to be present and witness the ceremonies of the occasion.

Festivities Soon Begin
 Headquarters for the visiting Novices and the Shriner have been opened at the Commercial hotel, and visitors to quarters which had been at home will find the hall an interesting place. Some of those who line up for the free meal have walked many miles. There were several who walked the entire distance from Mesa yesterday for the purpose of getting sufficient food to keep them on their feet. It is a noteworthy fact that since the inauguration of the free dinner only three vagrants have been arrested by the police department and the number of small crimes has materially decreased.

ABOUT TO HAVE GIVEN THANKS
 Railway Porter (to grate passenger): Howling because you are late? You got here right side up, with your head, your legs and your arms—and yet you have the nerve to complain!—Le Journal Amusant (Paris).

YOU FIRST!
 Disarmament is like a formal event in society—none wants to arrive till all the rest are there.—Nashville Tennessean.

There were 900 hungry persons fed at the Phoenix trades council hall yesterday noon within three hours. The meal dealt out free of charge to each applicant was plain but substantial, beginning with a good stew and ending with bread and beans. The cooking was done outside the hall and brought up piping hot promptly at the noon hour.

Alone was formed in the alley long before 12 o'clock and continued to increase in length until it extended well around the corner into Second street. Guests for the free feed were admitted at the rear entrance of the hall and passed out the front door onto Washington street.

The free dinner has been a daily event at the hall for the past week. A few members of the council originated the idea and put it into effect last Wednesday, when from a purse of $10, made up among themselves, they fed 75 men. So many cases of absolute hunger and want were apparent at this experimental dinner that it was repeated the following day, when 240 were fed.

During the past seven days nearly 5000 men, women and children have been served with a hot meal, and the total cost has only been $297.64 plus some donations of food. Everything in connection with the serving of these meals is contributed free of charge. The cooking is done without cost at Cass Brothers restaurant, and the serving is done by members of the council who volunteer their services.

Funds are now exhausted, but the necessity for providing some sustenance for the great number in Phoenix and vicinity who are without the price of a meal is more apparent than ever. In order to carry on the charitable work the council is calling for assistance from the general public. Members of the special committee who have taken charge of the movement can be reached by telephoning 722. A worker will call for any donation which may be offered.

NOVICES HAVE TOUGH TIME PREPARATORY TO ENTERING SHRINE

DRAGGED IN, CLAD IN A WHITE NIGHTSHIRT and a battered fireman's helmet, mounted on the back of a davenport, and told to "sing." But his act held a boomerang, for while he stumped and gesticulated in true grand opera fashion, he was heaping wordless phrases of abuse on his helpless directors. When they could stand it no longer they hauled him from his place in the sun, and put him to sweeping the floor, side by side with Walter Brown, who was still moaning "When do we eat?"

A song and dance act by Senator Morgan and George Kingdon, general manager of the United Verde Extension, opened the bill. They entered at Right Upper, and were greeted with shouts of delight from the enthusiastic audience. Each was charmingly assisted in an old shirt and rolled up trousers, with a big bow of ribbon on his hair and each carried a dainty little child's parasol. They bowed right and left with true ingenuit grace, advancing to the center of the stage with mincing steps. A thick rope knotted around each waist aided the red-fex in directing their movements, and they responded to encore after encore, before being finally removed to make way for the next act.

Next on the program was Walter Brown of Clarkdale, who, because of his petite sourette type, was elevated to the desk that all might see him perform. A rope under his arms, and thrown up to the floor of the mezzanine made it certain that he could not escape. He was made to do everything, from making love to the pretty little blonde telephone operator, to dancing the hula. "How Dry I Am" sung in a tired tenor, brought great cries of "Rotten" from the gallery and shouts of "Put more spirit into it!" from his tormentors. "When do I eat?" was his constant cry in between scenes, and to those who had snatched him away from the table, a few moments before, just when he was about to cut into a thick juicy steak, this seemed the funniest part of the play.

"Ray" Earhart, state treasurer, was the next source of amusement. He was
